

You shouldn't buy plastic stringed "Guitars" from the dollar

My sister bought one. TERRIBLE idea.

Gabriel Pugliese
Inspired by his sister, Elliana Pugliese

♩=12 Reason 1: Only four strings. Not a guitar. (No example here)

Musical notation for Reason 1: Only four strings. Not a guitar. (No example here). The notation shows a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef, both in 4/4 time. The treble staff has a 4/4 time signature. The bass staff has a 4/4 time signature. The notation consists of a series of horizontal lines with no notes or rests, indicating a lack of musical content.

10 Reason 2: TERRIBLE tuning, but tuning will probably break the strings. (Example: 7 - 9)

Musical notation for Reason 2: TERRIBLE tuning, but tuning will probably break the strings. (Example: 7 - 9). The notation shows a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef, both in 4/4 time. The treble staff has a 4/4 time signature. The bass staff has a 4/4 time signature. The notation consists of a series of notes and rests. The first measure is labeled "Guitar" and the second measure is labeled "Dollar tree 'Guitar' (Not exact)".

14 Reason 3: Tiny guitar that's hard to hold. (About the size of these 6 measures)

Musical notation for Reason 3: Tiny guitar that's hard to hold. (About the size of these 6 measures). The notation shows a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef, both in 4/4 time. The treble staff has a 4/4 time signature. The bass staff has a 4/4 time signature. The notation consists of a series of horizontal lines with no notes or rests, indicating a lack of musical content.